Thank you for getting back to me. I can give you a call at 10 am on Friday, if that works.

Hi Maura,

Tried you back. Zhang Plaintiffs do not think the Zhang and Leovy matters should be related. They involve different transactions, property and events. Specifically, Leovy involves claims against a large language model, Bard (including state law claims involving training on PII) whereas the Zhang case involves another AI model entirely (i.e., Imagen, an image model) and is strictly based on copyright claims.

Happy to discuss further. I have time tomorrow (Friday) in the A.M.

Christopher,

I tried to call and left you a voicemail - if you have a minute, I'd like to discuss plaintiffs' position on relating the Zhang v Google case to the Leovy v. Google case that is already pending in the Northern District of California, as these cases meet the criteria for relation. Please let me know if there's a time when you're available to discuss.

Best regards,

Maura
